Bridging the Gap: Advancing Black Health Equity in Diabetes Care

Date: World Diabetes Day – Friday, November 14, 2025

Time: 9:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.

Location: Innovation Works – 201 King St., London, Ontario

Who Should Attend:

Health leaders, health institutions, policymakers, community organizations and members, and anyone invested in advancing equitable, culturally safe, and effective systems for diabetes prevention and management.

Guest Speaker Highlight:

We're honoured to welcome Liben Gebremikael, Executive Director of TAIBU Community Health Centre, Canada's leading model for culturally affirming primary care, and Liben's leadership continues to inspire a national movement toward equitable systems of care.

Why You Should Attend:

This is more than a conversation, it's a working session that brings together community and institutions to co-create culturally responsive systems of diabetes care.

In collaboration with Middlesex-London Health Unit and Type DiaBeat It, this session represents a crucial step toward shared accountability and action in advancing Black health equity. Learn more and register at <https://www.diabeat-it.ca> *Scroll down to "Our Upcoming Events"
