Nursing 1120B – NRG 7107

COMMUNITY MODELS OF CARE

Calendar Description:

Students critically examine models of care and sources of knowledge in community nursing practice settings including public health, community home health and primary healthcare. Applying principles of primary healthcare, social justice, and equity, students critique how policy, practice, culture and societal norms impact health of the individual, family, community, and population-and gain an understand of the role of the nurse as a change agent and populations.

Expanded Description:

With a rise in health disparities, chronic health conditions, and ageing, there is an increasing need for better access to healthcare services outside of acute-care settings. In response to this changing healthcare climate, nurses are beginning to focus more of their efforts on promoting health and preventing disease in individuals, families, communities, and populations across various community settings. This course offers students the opportunity to explore and examine the importance of community nursing and the different roles and responsibilities of nurses working in community settings. Students will also be introduced to the Canadian Community Health Nursing Standards of Practice and will explore topics such as health promotion and protection, capacity building, health equity health policy, and professional responsibility, including how they relate to community health and community health nursing practice.

Antirequisite: Nursing 2220A/B

Prerequisite(s): Registration in Year 1 of the Western-Fanshawe Collaborative BScN Program or the Attendance

Students are expected to demonstrate professional responsibility through regular attendance at, and participation in, all course learning activities. Much of the learning that takes place is a result of preparation and engagement with the material, as well as active dialogue with colleagues and faculty. Students are expected to organize their schedules such that weekly preparation for class is completed, and classes are attended, with consistency.

Scholarly Requirements

All scholarly writing will follow the 7th edition of the Publication manual of the American Psychological Association (2020). All other types of writing will follow APA (7th ed.) format when citing or referencing another author's work or ideas. Failure to do so is unethical and is plagiarism.

Assignments and Exams

Please refer to the Undergraduate Academic Policy Manual for information on academic considerations, penalties for late assignments, re-grading of assignments, and the protocol for missed mid-term or final exams.

Plagiarism

Student work is expected to be original. Plagiarism is a serious academic offence and could lead to your expulsion from the nursing program. You are plagiarizing if you insert a phrase, sentence or paragraph taken directly from another author without acknowledging and appropriately citing the author to whom the work belongs. You are plagiarizing if you paraphrase or summarize another author's ideas without acknowledging that the ideas belong to them. You are plagiarizing if you present your own work, otherwise used for other course(s)/purposes, as original material in current course work. At the discretion of the instructor, you may be required to submit your work through Turnitin.com to verify originality and are responsible for acting on the report generated. For further information, please see the BScN Program Manual for the academic policy on plagiarism.

Artificial Intelligence (AI)

Within this course, students are permitted to use AI tools exclusively for information gathering and preliminary research purposes. These tools are intended to enhance the learning experience by providing access to diverse information sources. However, it is essential that students critically evaluate the obtained information, exercise independent thinking, and engage in original research to synthesize and develop their own ideas, arguments, and perspectives. The use of AI tools can serve as a starting point for exploration, with students expected to uphold academic integrity by appropriately attributing all sources and avoiding plagiarism. Assignments and/or lab reports should reflect the student's own thoughts and independent written work. By adhering to these guidelines, students contribute to a responsible and ethical learning environment that promotes critical thinking, independent inquiry and allows them to produce original written contributions.

Review of Graded Assignments

After a graded assignment is returned, a student's first step is to take time to reflect on the assignment description, on the feedback provided by the original marker within the assignment, and on the marking rubric. If a student cannot understand the meaning or intent behind the feedback received, they may submit a written request to the original marker for an informal consultation to review the assignment grade. The request must include documentation of grounds, based on the marker's feedback, to support the assignment review. An assignment will not be reviewed simply because a student is unhappy with the grade received, or they believe the mark does not reflect the effort they put into completing the assignment.

Students who need assistance with their writing skills should contact on-campus resources for support:

- Fanshawe (select Fanshawe Library Learning Commons): https://www.fanshawec.ca/students/support/academic-support
- Western: (http://writing.uwo.ca/)

If, after the assignment review, a student still believes they have grounds with supporting documentation that their grade was unfairly calculated, they may request a formal appeal of the grade in accordance with the policy for academic appeals (https://www.uwo.ca/ombuds/ or https://www.fanshawec.ca/appeals).

Use of Statistical Pattern Recognition on Multiple Choice Exams

Computer-marked multiple-choice tests and/or exams may be subject to submission for similarity review by software that will check for unusual coincidences in answer patterns that may indicate cheating.

Course Correspondence

To maintain the confidentiality of correspondence between students and course professor and/or Teaching Assistant(s), all electronic correspondence must take place within the course site on OWL (Western site students) or Fanshawe online (FOL – Fanshawe site). DO NOT send emails through the regular email system. You are expected to check the course site regularly for any messages/announcements posted by the course professor and/or Teaching Assistant(s).

Use of Electronic Devices

During Exams: Unless you have medical accommodations that require you to do so, or explicit permission from the instructor of the course, you may not use any electronic devices during ANY tests, quizzes, midterms, examinations, or other in-class evaluations.

During Lectures: You are welcome to use a laptop or mobile device during lecture periods, you are expected to use your devices for scholastic purposes only, and refrain from engaging in any activities that may distract other students from learning. Please turn off all sound notifications before you enter the classroom. From time to time, your instructor may ask the class to put away all devices, to facilitate learning or discussion of the material presented in a particular class. Unless explicitly noted otherwise, you may not make audio or video recordings of lectures – nor may you edit, re-use, distribute, or re-broadcast any of the material posted to the course website.

If you have concerns or comments about how the use of laptops or mobile devices is affecting your learning during the course, please make an appointment to talk with the instructor.

Social Media

It is a breach of privacy and confidentiality, and highly unprofessional, to post information on any social media platform about topics such as, but not limited to:

- Peers
- Class activities/discussion
- Clients
- Agencies
- Laboratories
- Simulations
- Communications with professors

Students who post content on social media that is cause for concern will be reported to the Associate Director (Western) or Associate Dean (Fanshawe). Such behavior may compromise a student's standing in the program.

Inclusivity, Diversity, and Respect

We are dedicated to making space for diverse perspectives and content during shared learning experiences within this course. Together with you, we aim to co-create a learning atmosphere for generative discussion and respectful engagement with multiple worldviews, ways of knowing and being, and perspectives. As future healthcare providers, it is expected of you to create welcoming and inclusive classroom environments much like you would in practice. Your peer group comes from a myriad of experiences and worldviews, all who deserve to be listened to and heard in a respectful and open-minded manner. Hateful messages have no place in this classroom community and will not be tolerated. Engaging in respectful dialogue requires deep, active listening and we need to be mindful of positionality (what may be easy to debate for one person, may be emotionally laborious for another). This course requires you to engage in critical reflection as you embark on your career as health professionals; at times this may be uncomfortable or even painful. We ask that you practice humility, work through defensiveness, and embrace vulnerability as you embark on this journey of personal development.

As your instructors, we are committed to supporting you in navigating this course content. We are not perfect and may falter but will do our best to learn and grow when that happens. Together, throughout this course, we will create a space that may challenge our prior understandings but supports inclusivity and respect for all participants. If you require support in navigating a challenging discussion, please reach out.
