◀ (N/A) ▶

“Unless you have either the requisites for this course or written special permission from your Dean to enroll in it, you may be removed from this course and it will be deleted from your record. This decision may not be appealed. You will receive no adjustment to your fees in the event that you are dropped from a course for failing to have the necessary prerequisites.”

DESCRIPTION

◀ (This introduction to the philosophy of science explores how philosophical questions are linked to sciences. Over the course of the semester, we will look at examples of successes and failures in science and reflect on issues such as: What are the aims of science? What demarcates science from pseudoscience? Does science progress? Is scientific knowledge objective? Are scientific representations real? How historical and social contexts affect the work of scientists? These questions will be explored through a wide range of topics that became the center of attention in the natural and social sciences, including astronomy, geography, climate science, evolution, genetics, ecology, and medicine.) ▶

OBJECTIVES

◀ (This course is designed to immerse students in a wide range of scientific disciplines and philosophical issues arising within them. Yet, no prior background in science is necessary. Only a willingness to engage in philosophical reflection and a curiosity to explore science from different viewpoints is required.

At the end of this course, students will have a broad understanding of some of the core questions that marked the philosophical reflection about science since the 17th Century.

Students will discover the fascinating and thriving world of philosophy of science through engaging readings, videos, and by participating in structured discussions. This course is thus a great opportunity for students to develop advanced critical thinking and communicative skills, including

- Identifying, evaluating, and formulating philosophical issues related to diverse scientific inquiries
- Writing balanced and well-supported argumentative essays
- Leading a focused discussion on issues related to reading materials
- Presenting and challenging ideas in a respectful and constructive way

METHOD OF EVALUATION

◀ The final grade will be based upon the following scheme:

- Essay 1 (35%) on an issue of your choice discussed during the first six weeks of the course.
- Essay 2 (35%) on an issue of your choice discussed during the second half of the semester.
- Short Reflective Pieces (8 in total, 7 Assignments and 1 Forum) (24%).
- Echoes from the Marginal Voices (6%). VoiceThread activity.

AUDIT

Students wishing to audit the course should consult with the instructor prior to or during the first week of classes.

ACCOMMODATION

Students seeking academic accommodation on medical grounds for any missed tests, exams, participation components and/or assignments worth 10% or more of their final grade must apply to the Academic Counselling office of their home Faculty and provide documentation. Academic accommodation cannot be granted by the instructor or department. Documentation shall be submitted, as soon as possible, to the Office of the Dean of the student's Faculty of registration, together with a request for relief specifying the nature of the accommodation being requested.

EVALUATION OF ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE

At least three days prior to the deadline for withdrawal from a course without academic penalty, students will receive an assessment of work accounting for at least 15% of their final grade. For 3000- or 4000-level courses in which such a graded assessment is impracticable, the instructor(s) must obtain an exemption from this policy from the Dean and this exemption must be noted on the corresponding course syllabus. In rare instances and at the Dean's discretion, other courses could receive a similar exemption, which also must be noted in the course syllabus.

COURSE ASSIGNMENT

The last day of scheduled classes in any course will be the last day on which course assignments will be accepted for credit in a course. Instructors will be required to return assignments to students as promptly as possible with reasonable explanations of the instructor's assessment of the assignment.

ACADEMIC OFFENCES
